

DIABETES AND THE CORONAVIRUS: UNDERSTANDING THE BASICS IN A WORLD OF UNCERTAINTY

Recorded Webinar

Course Description:

This activity is designed to assist the nurse in better understanding how COVID 19 may impact diabetes. Methods that may be utilized to aid in preventing inpatient hospital admissions for patients with both diabetes and the coronavirus will be discussed. A comprehensive review of both Type I and Type II diabetes, the current ADA recommendations for HgB A1C along with monitoring guidelines will be discussed. Finally, focus will be given to how proper dietary and medical management of diabetes can be successful. This includes a comprehensive review of commonly used medications as well as additional blood glucose monitoring guidelines to elicit improved patient outcomes.

Desired Outcome:

Participants of this activity will have an improved understanding of COVID 19 and its impact on diabetes. This information may assist in the prevention of probable inpatient admission stays of diabetic patients who are diagnosed with the coronavirus.

CE Credit: No partial nursing credit will be awarded.
